

A Boston native, Laura began dancing before the age of two and began competing with her studio's team at the age of 10. Over the next eight years, Laura traveled regionally and nationally with the In the Spotlight Dance Company, winning numerous title and group awards. She continued her knowledge under the teachings of Susan Montrond, Jennifer Freeman, Jeannette Neill, and with groups such as the Young Americans, Boston Tap Company, and the Radio City Rockettes. Laura developed a love for teaching and sharing her passion with others at a very young age, choreographing for numerous drama clubs, show choirs, theatre companies, and colleges across Massachusetts. She graduated from Wheaton College (MA) with degrees in her two favorite things: Dance and English. Laura moved to Central Florida to live and work in the place where dreams come true, and has performed for and held various jobs with Universal Studios Orlando and Walt Disney World since 2012. While moonlighting as a teacher for the Ready, Set, Dance family, Laura "daylights" as a Walt Disney Imagineer.
